Civic String Orchestra Closes Season May 27

The Civic String Orchestra, under the direction of Harvey Gaul, will close the season with a concert in the Hotel Schenley ballroom on Wednesday, May 27, at 8 p. m. The soloist is Viola Byrgerson, contralto.

Miss Byrgerson, who is soloist of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, has been guest soloist with many oratorical societies. She will sing Sir Edward Elgar's "Sea Pictures," and Granville Bantock's "Four Songs from Chinese Poets." Miss Marian C. Bollinger will accompany her at the piano. Supplementary instruments will be played by Lena Hayward, flute, and Katheryn Heupel, clarinet.

The orchestra will play for the first time in Pittsburgh Quinto Maganini's "Cuban Rhapsody," a work built on Cuban Negro themes. The orchestra will also play works by A. Walter Kramer and Frances McCollin, Philadelphia's blind composer.

Romance?

There is a little mystery connected with this flight. Social circles, particularly in Chicago and New York will watch developments with great interest. Miss Rosenwald is a charming and beautiful young woman besides being the daughter of one of the most outstanding families in America.
