

EPHRATA AIR BASE
EPHRATA, WASHINGTON

Sept. 15, 1943

Mr. Harry Shriber
1442 Jolney St.
Pittsburgh, Pa.

My dear Sir:

It's been almost a month since I received "Vol. 1 - No. 1" of the Service Bulletin, but Uncle Sam has pushed me from way down in Florida (where I got the Bulletin) to way up here in Washington, where you can yell hello to your Canadian friends. Quite a long, involved, & tortuous trip from one end of our fair Country to the other. So that explains my delay in writing you about how much I was thrilled to get the Bulletin.

You know, we fellows haven't much free time when we get down to it, so I'll make my comment short, but true, and if it's sweet - more credit to you & your fine bunch of writers. Truly now, the paper is a Godsent. To a news-hungry, sometimes homesick & homesick soldier, what finer token of remembrance & tribute could he ask? It's like the proverbial "letter from home" only so very distinctive & so very original in its own way, that it's welcomed more & more & more as each day rolls by and a single individual longs to return and wonder

Rex Shriber

"What's going on?"

I believe my Mother would have said, had she seen my face as I read the paper, "He was tickled pink".

Thank you very much, & please keep up the splendid work!

Very sincerely

Pfc. Jules M. Hinkes
395th Bombardment Group
589th " Sqdn.
Eglin Air Base, Wash.