CONCORDIA THEATER
ADMISSION ONE FRANK

THE BABES

CONCORDIA THEATER

Personal Direction of Mr. Morris Kingsbacher
Mrs. Ernest W. Stix, General Manager

For the Information of Guests Telephone Court 6602

Exits—The doors, front and back, open into spacious streets which lead to fresh air and recovery.

The Guests—Will please refrain from discussing the dinner during its progress. It is most annoying to the chef.

Exchanges—Under no circumstances are ushers allowed to accept money for exchange of dinner partners. Madeleine Straus already has hers.

Complaints—By special arrangement with the Bell Telephone Company, guests will be enabled tomorrow to make all complaints to their friends.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The first meeting of the Florence Kingsbacher Mourners' Association will be held the second Thursday of next week in Duquesne Garden. The overflow will assemble in Schenley Park.

NEWSY GOSSIP

Mrs. Stee Leopold, since her tremendous success as chaperone last summer, has been besieged by no less than 150 couples to act for them in that capacity. Her oculist, however, has advised against her wearing dark glasses continuously.

It is authoritatively stated that Mr. Maurice Scharff is planning to entertain "A Little Party" at Murray Isle next summer.

Florence Rothschild was asked whether she was pro-German, and replied that she was absolutely neutral, and for her part, she didn't care who licked the Germans.

Did you ever notice that Cass has an Amyable Point of View?

What made Bill marry Florence?
Ans.—Florence.

Bess Sied, Si sighed, both sighed, down by the sea-side.

A Jay will address the assembly about midnight on "The Evils of Drink."

Knives and forks are no longer being used in the best regulated families. For further "dope" see Ernest, Special Agent for Rice Stix.

Synopsis of Scenes

TIME—A NIGHT IN JUNE

PLACE—PITTSBURGH

Act I. 4:30 P. M.

BILL

Say, may'nt I come around tonight ?
A "no" will leave me cheerless.
What say you? Will it be alright?
Suppose I bring the Peerless?

FLORENCE

All right; that suits me very fine,
But come about eleven;
When father's late we never dine
Till after half past seven.

Act II. 8:00 P. M.

BILL

Hello, there! Ready? Yes, I know,
I came a little early.
Perhaps we might take in a show;
Some weather out—eh, girlie?

FLORENCE

Well, mother, I'll be going now;
I guess I'll skip my dinner.
Bill's waiting, and—well, anyhow,
I'm trying to get thinner.

Act III. 11:21 P. M.

BILL

Yon moon that gleams from out the dark
Shines on us both together.
Excuse me while I re-remark
That this is dandy weather.

FLORENCE

How marvelous that overhead
The dipper twinkles nightly!
And—well, as you so truly said,
The moon is shining brightly.

Act IV. 11:22 P. M.

BILL

O Florence, dearest! Brighter far
Than shines the moon above you—
Than gleams the light of my cigar—
Oh, hang it all! I love you!

FLORENCE

Bill—Bill—you—don't know what you say;
I don't see how you can, sir!
You—no, no, take your arm away—
Oh, dear, how can I answer!

Act V. 11:22 P. M.

BILL

O answer me that you'll be mine,
And ease my one ambition!
And I, to square it, will be thine—
An even proposition.

FLORENCE

But, Willyum! The parental tie
I've sworn I wouldn't sever—
Oh, Bill, I just can't tell a lie:
I'm yours alone forever!

Act VI. 2:17½ A. M.

A GREAT "CHAMIMA" IS PREDICTED TO-NIGHT

The Modern Casa Bianca

The Boy stood on the burning deck
Whence all but Floss had fled,
She knew not how to flee the wreck
But Billy kept his head.

Quite calm (as e'er) he stood the test,
Nor wasted he a word;
"Stick to me, kid, I'll do the rest"—
Is all that Flossie heard.

"Thank God, she is no heavy weight,"
Thought Billy from the start,
In fact, he added to that freight
His own big loving heart.

With wine and song and women fair,
We therefore celebrate,
The wedding of this couple rare
Who share each other's fate.

May they embark on life's blue sea
Equipped to rule the storm,
With joy and health and youthful glee
Enriching each new morn.

GERTRUDE AND ELIAS SUNSTEIN

WHAT THEY THINK OF THE BRIDE

Mr. William K. Frank, of the Dontascus Bronze Co., and groom-elect, said: "Florence has moulded herself deep into my heart. You cannot know how glad I am that she has declared herself willing to cast her lot with mine."

Mr. Clarence Fink, Cement Head of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory and our village gossip, said: "Florence has proved to me that she can stand the test of true friendship. She will always be cemented in my affections."

Dr. Milton Jena, medical Neophite of the University of Pennsylvania, said: "In dissecting Miss Kingsbacher's character, I find no flaws. Her heart is in the right place and she has a mighty good head on her."

Mr. Ferdinand T. Weil, student at law, and Pittsburgh's coming—and going—attorney, said: "I have always advocated that Florence was a mighty fine girl. She has a will of her own and I have often heard her give good counsel. There is nothing I would not do for her, and if she ever wants a divorce she will find me at her service."

Mr. Walter Solomon Cohen, who holds one of the highest architectural positions in Pittsburgh—top floor of the Oliver building—said: "Florence is a brick."

Miss Amy Rauh, the next bride to be—so far as we know—said: "She didn't get as nice a fellow as my Cass, but the only reason she didn't is that there aren't any more as nice."

Mrs. Stella Leopold, our Official Chaperone, passed by the board of censors, said: "Guess I'm not some 'Schatzchen.'"

Mr. Arthur D. Gatz, Attorney at Law, Bar Tender, &c., said: "I think almost as much of Florence as I do of myself."

Mr. Cash Sunsteinsh, Official Taster for C. Sunstein & Sons, said: "Ask Amy how much I think of Florence. She'll tell you."

Mrs. W. S. Cohen, alias Stella Koch, our erstwhile village commuter, said: "In all my travels, I have never met a finer friend."

Miss Florence Rothschild, our local Tetrizini, said: "I could sing Florence's praises all night, but I'm afraid the audience would desert."

The - - - Concordia Theater

is a Theater where refined high-class entertainments are presented. Mr. Morris Kingsbacher, as President, pledges his word that performances in this Theater will always be artistic and refined. And also that nothing will be permitted which, by spoken word or mute action, will offend the most circumspect patron. Thus there is assured a place of polite amusement for the whole family—a place where ladies and children may go in the afternoon or evenings with or without escort.

¶ The tone and atmosphere of the Concordia Theater will always correspond with well-ordered homes of culture, and in consonance with this policy the President will esteem it a favor if guests will report any inattention or incivility of their partners.
