

JUDGES' CHAMBERS
COURT OF COMMON PLEAS
PITTSBURGH PA

JOSIAH COHEN
JUDGE

October 27, 1927.

Marcus Feuchtwanger, Esq.,
President, Temple Israel,
New Castle, Pa.

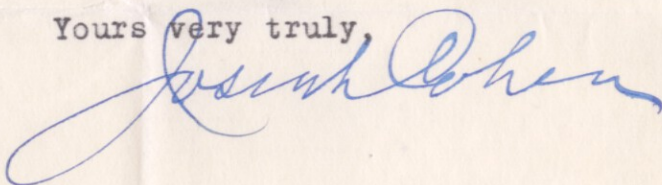

My dear Sir:

Please accept my sincere acknowledgement of your courteous invitation to attend the dedication ceremonies and banquet to take place respectively on November 4th, 5th and 6th next of the house of worship Temple Israel.

I must again repeat to you that which I stated in my former letter, that it would be a great pleasure to me to attend those services for many reasons, but especially because of the great intimacy that had existed between the lamented Dr. Levy and myself, in whose name I understand the building is to be dedicated, and especially, too because of my long and sincere friendship to you and your beloved wife, but I must forego the pleasure partially because I am in the midst of an great judicial campaign, and not so much, either, on account of that precisely, as because my health has become very much impaired through the urgent demands made upon me in that behalf during the late primary election.

In the hope that the occasion may be as successful as the program indicates it will be, with personal regards to yourself and your good wife, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Joseph Cohen". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, sweeping initial "J" and a long, horizontal flourish extending to the right.