

an empty loft, fit it up with funeral parlor chairs and hang out a huge sign inviting customers on the promise that "we give you the best Jewish religious services in the city for the lowest price anywhere. Good singing guaranteed."

This highly delicate task of keeping Orthodox Jews from one another's throats is now in the hands of the district attorneys of the various counties. Respected Orthodox leaders are solemnly promising to bring to the bar of justice such culprits as try to undersell their religious goods. After all, there is an NRA and a code. What a pleasant sight and sound for Christian ears! New York Orthodoxy probably needs a Kenesaw Mountain Landis to keep the Jewish name from the high odor that often ascends into the skies from its mercenary religious activities.

Christians Help United Jewish Appeal Drive in Franklin, Pa.

An interesting story of Christian cooperation in the campaign to raise $3,000,000 for the aid of Jews of Germany is contained in a report from Franklin, Pennsylvania, which has just been received by Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, a co-chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, at the national offices of the organization in the Pershing Square Building, New York City. This community, according to the writer of the report, Carl H. Alsborg who assumed the leadership in this effort to raise his community's share in the nation-wide campaign, has only three Jewish families. Yet he was able to obtain, he said, $438, — the bulk of these contributions being made by Christians.

"In connection with raising funds for the United Jewish Appeal for aid of the Jews of Germany," Mr. Alsborg wrote, "I took the liberty of appointing myself a committee of one and have just completed my campaign.

"I am enclosing herewith a check for $438 representing the contributions of this community.

"I consider this contribution rather remarkable in view of the fact that to my knowledge there are only three Jewish families in Franklin and the bulk of my gifts came from Gentile friends."

Recreation Guild Travels to Observatory

To continue their educational interests, the I. K. S. Youth Recreation Guild will journey to the Allegheny Observatory at Riverview Park Monday evening, July 30, to see our planets through various sizes of telescopes and to hear Frank C. Jordan, the director.

In addition to the educational interests, members of the Guild utilize their leisure time in many constructive endeavors which they are enjoying, such as social dancing, classes and games, arts, and crafts, social affairs, athletics and swimming, all under experienced supervisors.

Public Invited to Hear Address on "Practical Politics"

The League for Social Justice of Pittsburgh has planned an interesting open meeting on the roof of the Settlement on Saturday evening, July 28. The invited speaker for the evening will be Mayor William M. McNair, whose subject will be "Practical Politics." Several additional speakers from the Henry George Foundation will be on the program.

An invitation is extended to all adults; in addition to hearing the interesting address, they will not want to miss this opportunity of seeing the new rustic lounge which has just been opened for the first time this summer.

Jubilee Singers to Perform on Settlement Roof

A "free" concert has been arranged for senior and adult members which will be held on the cool and clean Settlement roof, Friday evening, August 3. This concert will be given under the auspices of the R.W.D. program, and will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Story Hour Held Wednesday

Each Wednesday morning members of the play school are favored with a thrilling story by competent story tellers. Miss Brunet and Miss Bochofen of the Wylie Avenue Library impart one of their tales to the play school members who in turn will revive the legend through dramatization, thus giving them an opportunity to develop poise and stage presence.

"Free" Movie for Members of Play School

A "free" movie for play school members will be shown Thursday morning,

August 2, in the Auditorium, through the courtesy of the Bell Telephone Company, showing its system of telephones, exchanges, new types of machines, etc. In addition to this movie, an address on "Safety and its Importance" will be delivered.
