JUNIOR CLUB ORGANIZED AT PITTSBURGH HEBREW SCHOOL

The pupils of Mr. Rabinovitz's class of the Pittsburgh Hebrew School, 137 Crawford Street, met Sunday, January 25th, and organized a junior club, the first of its kind in the history of the Talmud Torah. Among its objects is to promote regular attendance at the classes, diligent application to studies, strict adherence to the tenets of the Orthodox Jewish religion, and to lend assistance to needy members. It is also proposed to offer prizes to members showing exceptional ability in class work, the successful pupils to be recommended by Rabbi M. S. Sivitz, principal.

At the first meeting of the club, held in the Talmud Torah, Israel Lefkofsky, president of the Pittsburgh Hebrew School, made a brief address. Mr. Rabinovitz and Joseph M. Kelskay, secretary of the Pittsburgh Hebrew School, also spoke. An invitation has been extended to Rabbi Sivitz to address the club at its next meeting. The officers are: Bernard Gusky, president; Alfred Taska, vice president; Gordon Codner, secretary; Bernard Heller, treasurer, and Saul Kolchinsky, Leonard Klein and Joe Klaussner, members of the social committee. The other members are Meyer Gerson, Paul Lutterman, Morris Goldberg, Arthur Alter, Joe Ackerman, Isidor Vilansky, Emmanuel Goldsmith, Simon Gerson, Louis Marcus, Aaron Golden, Reuben Levine, Jacob Levine, Sam Broner and Abe Goldstein.

Rabbi M. S. Sivitz, Israel Lefkofsky, R. Rabinovitz and Joseph M. Kelskay are honorary members.
