

Home For the Aged.

A most worthy enterprise received its impetus at a meeting held last Sunday evening in the Washington Street Synagogue, when a proposition to establish a home for the aged and infirm was agreed to. A large audience was present and showed in a most unmistakable manner their complete sympathy with the movement. There is no question but that a home for the old and helpless is absolutely necessary, and we feel confident that the supporters of the movement will meet with every success. The speakers at the meeting were Rabbi Fried, Mr. Henry Jackson and Rabbi Ashinsky. They all made earnest pleas for the furtherance of such an institution and as an earnest of good intentions $1,000 was subscribed at the meeting. Meetings will be held from time to time and a thorough organization perfected.
