CHAIM NACHMAN BIALIK

The Greatest of Hebrew Poets, will be in Pittsburgh,

May 30

His poetry seems to be a continuation of the prophets of old. His work appears inspired.

His childhood was spent amid the poverty and squalor of South Russia. There he learned his "song" from the monotonous clicking of the cricket, as he expresses it.

Bialik's poetry is neither comforting nor soothing. Rather he storms against his people for permitting itself to be butchered.

Scorn and contempt are his only reactions to a race that will lift no hand in its defense.

Bialik, however, is not a mere dreamer. He was and is actually struggling for Zionism. His residence is in Palestine, but he is now visiting America to strengthen Zionism here.

Chaim Nachman Bialik Will Speak in Pittsburgh on

MAY 30

Will You Hear Him?
