

tives will likewise approve the similar Resolution introduced by Congressman Hamilton Fish, which was favorably reported by the Foreign Relations Committee. This, Dr. Snitzer stated, would have a great effect in favor of the approval by the League of Nations, when they are called upon to pass on the Mandate for Palestine, awarded to the British Government. He then introduced Vladimir Jabotinsky who received a great ovation.

The speaker in his characteristic style made an eloquent plea to the Pittsburgh Jews to support the Palestine Foundation Fund and without solicitation for any funds, those present offered to convert their pledges which they made for five years to single contributions for this year. Mr. I. Abramovitz was the first one to give his check in full payment for his $100 pledge. This was announced by Prof. Nathan Isaacs, who lauded Mr. Abramovitz for his action, and others followed his example. As a result the amount of $2,200.00 in cash was received by Prof. Nathan Isaacs. The toastmaster made an announcement that Mr. Charles Levine, who had left for Palestine the preceding Sunday, converted his five yearly pledge of $500.00 to a single contribution for this year and has been the first one to pledge another $500.00 for the new Drive which will start in the Fall.

Mr. Jacob B. Hoffman, head of the Collection Department of the Keren Hayesod, made an appeal to those present to follow the example of Mr. Levine and convert their five yearly pledges to a single contribution for this year. He announced that a vigorous campaign to collect all outstanding pledges will be carried on by the local Bureau under the Directorship of Mr. B. Minenberg.

THE AGADUTH KEHILOTH

In pursuance to the request of the Bureau of the Jewish Religious Education, for propaganda in synagogues during the Sabbaths and holidays, it is necessary to make it known to the officers of the various synagogues that there are 5,262 Jewish children in the following Elementary Schools between the ages of six to fifteen:

Grant School, 12; Hancock, 38; Franklin, 767; Letsche, 227; Miller, 671; Moorehead, 746; Rose, 247; McKelvey, 1,000; Somers, 162; Minersville, 201; Watt, 431; Soho, 61; Forbes, 427 and Holmes, 272. Total 5,262.

With all the available space that the City of Pittsburgh now has for Jewish education, namely the Hebrew Institute, the Talmud Torah in Crawford Street, Yeshivah Hebrew Religious Academy in Tannehill Street, the School of the Pola Zatik, also in Crawford Street, and the Sabbath Sunday School of the Beth Hamedrash Hagoda, Washington Place, and the Sabbath Sunday School in the Irene Kaufmann Settlement. Only about 1,700 children can be accommodated, which would leave about 3,500 children without having a place where to be taught. The above mentioned places can accommodate 500 more, yet, the Bureau of Jewish Education is willing with your help, and the help of the various congregations to furnish the space and teachers for those children who are not attending any religious school.

Statistics show, that from all pupils of the above mentioned schools, there was not one case brought to the attention of the Juvenile Court.

It is requested that the parents who have children at home, between the ages of six to fifteen years, apply to any of the Religious Schools, or to the synagogues which they attend, or to any society that is in any way connected with Jewish Education, and it will be taken up immediately and places shall be provided where they can be taken care of.

Pittsburgh Delegates to Jewish Congress Will Speak at Public Meeting

Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky, Prof. Nathan Isaacs, Dr. S. Seegman, and Mr. B. Hirsh Will Give a Report of the Proceedings at Philadelphia, Sunday Evening, June 18, 1922, at the Beth Hamedrash Hagodol

It is now admitted by all factions that the session of the Jewish Congress, held in Philadelphia on May Twenty-first and Twenty-second, will go down in American Jewish History as an important event.

In order that the Jewish residents of Pittsburgh and vicinity be fully informed of what actually took place at the Jewish Congress and how the proceedings will effect the entire Jewry in America, the Pittsburgh Delegates, Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky, Prof. Nathan Isaacs, Dr. S. Seegman and Mr. B. Hirsh, will give a full account of the proceedings in Philadelphia at a public meeting which will be held Sunday evening, June Eighteenth, 1922, at the Beth Hamedrash Hagodol, Washington Street.

This will mark the first public appearance of Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky since his return from Williamsburg. The Chairman of the meeting will be Dr. S. Bloomberg, who is the president of the local Jewish Congress Committee.

Every Jewish resident of Pittsburgh and vicinity is invited to be present. There will be no charge for admission and no collections will be taken up.
