Brody's Restaurant Opens on Upper Fifth Avenue

Of interest to readers of the Criterion, and especially to the hundreds of merchants and workers in upper Fifth Avenue, is the announcement of the reopening of the restaurant at 1321 Fifth Avenue, under the management of Mr. A. Brody. Mr. Brody needs no introduction to Criterion readers inasmuch as he has been in the restaurant business in that particular neighborhood for a number of years.

In taking over the management of this restaurant, Mr. Brody insisted that a number of changes be made in the appearance of the restaurant itself and particularly in the quality of food served. As a result, Brody's Restaurant, as it will be known, will be the largest and most beautiful on the avenue, and the meals will be real home-cooked and prepared in Hungarian style. Splendid service will be featured at all times.

Private parties, weddings and receptions are solicited and assurance is given of excellent and high class catering.
