

YPS returns to Bnai Zion after a fire

YPS release

Young People's Synagogue, Pittsburgh's first and longest lasting Havura, will return to its refurbished building, the YPS/Bnai Zion, Congregation building at 6404 Forbes Ave., for Shabbat Ki Tavo, September 15-16.

The building was badly damaged by fire on January 19, 2000, and required major renovations. During the entire period from January to the present, YPS maintained a full schedule of services in the ZOA House across the street from its permanent home.

Members of the Jewish community may join in, as the congregation returns to its sanctuary.
