

Rabbi Jacob Joseph Rabbinical College

The students of the Rabbi Jacob Joseph Rabbinical College assembled on Sunday, May 11, at the Keheth Jeshurun Synagogue. Rabbi J. J. Hurvitz, the energetic and enlightening leader of the College, pleasantly surprised his students with his new program of study for the next month. The new study will be that of the old Hebrew legends found especially in Tract Brachoth. Rabbi Hurvitz feels that these legends are worthy of special study not only for their own sake, but also because they reveal to a great extent the spirit and character of the Hebrew people.

Rabbi Hurvitz explained, however, that he will continue to give his interesting lectures on Hebrew philosophy at intervals for variety's sake.

The College is run on a unique, yet a very satisfactory plan. On Sunday every student is given the assignment for study during the week. He is expected to give at least five hours to it and to report at least once to Rabbi Hurvitz for special help. This enables him to get the subject well in hand. The following Sunday, all the students will meet again and have a thorough discussion of everything new that came up in their week's study. Under this system remarkable progress has been made.
