

It is the month of October and that means Halloween. All the children were getting ready for the spooky things that might happen.

Halloween night was spooky. A fiddler came out of the sky and started to play his fiddle.
The sound of the fiddle awakened all the Halloween spirits. First, the skeletons came out of their closets.
They flopped around and flopped around till they fell down to the floor.

The fiddler kept playing & awakened the black cats. They crept through the streets very quietly showing their long claws and grinding their backs.

Next, the fiddler woke up the witches.
They came flying through the sky on their broomsticks. When they got down to earth they jumped off the broomsticks and started to do a witches dance. Wey, but they were ugly. The children were all very scared They didn't know how to get rid of them.

Halloween spirits. Just then they saw someone they had not seen before.
He had a big sack of sand on his back. It was the Sandman.

The Sandman danced around all the Halloween spirits and put sand into their eyes. As he did this they slowly dropped to the ground and fell asleep; first, the skeletons; then the black-cats; then the witches, and then the goblins.
They were all asleep. Now the children could go home because Halloween was over.....