
MINERAL SPRINGS HOTEL ENJOYING LIVELY SEASON

Mr. Mendel, proprietor of the Mineral Springs Hotel, Saxonburg, Pa., wrote in recently, very enthusiastic over this season's crowds which have been visiting his popular hotel. He says,

"Our mineral water swimming pool is going over big. Last Sunday, there was hardly room at times to swim, and the funny part of it is that about 75% of the guests are from Pittsburgh. Our dining room is quite popular, special calls coming in for our famous chicken and those nice brown waffles that melt in your mouth, and some people are eating so many that it is not good for us—I mean for our profits. Last week we had 100 members from the Quahitis Club of Butler, and we have been called upon to serve for a number of banquets. When it comes to banquets, we are equipped to handle any size crowd; we don't serve samples but actually give you plenty to eat.

"I guess I was born 30 years too soon, for to my surprise, some very pretty Jewish girls have arranged for a banquet for about thirty, for themselves and their boy friends, the girls to pay the bill. Just think—the girls are paying the bill; I was never that lucky.

"The Mineral Springs Pavilion, which is situated in a beautiful wooded grove surrounded by large shade trees, is a grand place to dance. There are 300 feet of wide porches, surrounded by beautiful landscaped lawns, and the atmosphere is so 'youthifying' that Pop Keely of Pittsburgh, who is 74 years young, surprised his friends by fitting his form into a bathing suit and taking a high dive into the pool. Needless to say the young folks have nothing on him."
